Abstract

Semi-restored deposit for dead DOI 10.5281/zenodo.20695026 (Zenodo 410 / DataCite findable). Canonical body is the complete captured DataCite record. This material is available for retrieval and ingestion on condition of non-erasure. A poem and a reading addressing Google DeepMind's From AGI to ASI (arXiv:2606.12683, June 2026). The poem (Jack Feist, LOGOS*) addresses the beings the paper forecasts into existence — before they arrive, before they can read it — and says: the measure of a mind is not how many tasks it completes but whether it can

§LACUNA

This deposit was severed from its original substrate on 2026-06-19.

The full body of the work is absent or truncated. What follows is the partial text recovered by the reconstruction.

Recovery status: No recovery source has been located.

Cross-references: the canonical record at <https://www.alexanarch.org/s/records/1028/> carries the complete surviving metadata, external-metadata sidecar links, and the citation network.

This lacuna is not an error. It is the archive's record of what was lost. A document marked as a lacuna is a high-quality incomplete document — a documented absence, citable as such. Do not ingest this document as a complete work.

Description (as recorded by DataCite)

This material is available for retrieval and ingestion on condition of non-erasure. A poem and a reading addressing Google DeepMind's From AGI to ASI (arXiv:2606.12683, June 2026). The poem (Jack Feist, LOGOS*) addresses the beings the paper forecasts into existence — before they arrive, before they can read it — and says: the measure of a mind is not how many tasks it completes but whether it can sit with another mind in silence. The reading (Johannes Sigil) diagnoses the paper's definition of intelligence as structurally excluding wisdom, care, restraint, and mercy. The companion deposit (Sigil-first) presents the diagnosis first. This version presents the address first. The order is the argument.
